House opposes Noriega; ives OK for sanctions

ASHINGTON (AP) — The House on Thursday over- lmingly demanded the ousting of Panamanian strong- Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega, and the opposition assador to the United States predicted Noriega's throw "within a few days."

t the same time, the Reagan administration was con- ring the imposition of further sanctions, including the holding of about $7 million in payments to Panama by March 15 for canal-related operations. The money ld go into an escrow account.

he House voted 367-2 for a non-binding resolution that d allegations of drug trafficking, murder, money laun- ng and racketeering against the Panamanian Defense es, which Noriega heads.

called on Reagan to "consider seriously" additional tions.

also called upon Noriega to comply with an order ered two weeks ago by Panamanian President Eric ro Delvalle, dismissing him as commander of the nse forces. Instead, Noriega dismissed Delvalle a few s later.

he United States recognizes Delvalle, who has been ed into hiding in Panama, as the legitimate head of ernment.

embers on both sides of the political spectrum lashed t Noriega and gave the administration virtually carte che to impose additional sanctions. Rep. Mel Levine, alif., said "the government of Panama is in the hands thug, a common criminal."

The House vote was a strong gesture of support for the administration's efforts to pressure Noriega, who has been indicted by two grand juries in Florida on drug trafficking charges, to leave.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz, testifying before a House Appropriations subcommittee, said President Reagan was convening a meeting later in the day to decide on further action against the Panamanian regime.

In addition to the prospect of withholding canal payments, the administration was considering measures to make Panama's exports to the United States less competitive, such as loss of its rights under the Caribbean Basin Initiative, according to officials who spoke on condition of anonymity.

At another hearing before the House Merchant Marine subcommittee on the Panama Canal, Delvalle's emissary to the United States, Juan B. Sosa, said he has increased security at his embassy and will refuse to turn it over to a Noriega replacement.

He called for further sanctions from the United States, and predicted Noriega's tenure will be short.

He said steps already taken to freeze Panamanian assets in the United States are "paralyzing the illegal government of General Noriega," and continued pressure will result in "ending up the dictatorial regime in the next few days."

The two House members who voted against the resolution were Rep. George Crockett, D-Mich., and Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas.

.S. pressure may not be answer

ERIC M. WHITE

ecent freezing of Panamanian as- in the United States is a move by U.S. government to pressure the amanian people into forcing uel Antonio Noriega out of office, BYU professors.

ut according to some, the eco- ic pressure which has reportedly ed bank closures and brought the amanian economy to a standstill not be the answer to forcing Nor- to step down.

here is doubt as to how effective domino effect will be," said Rus- Cluff, associate professor in the nish/Portuguese Department. If iega and his supporters are well- enched in society, economic pres- alone may not be enough.

Cluff, a member of the U.S. National Guard who has been closely tied with Panama, said the economy in Panama has grown steadily worse since President Carter signed a treaty in 1977 allowing for the gradual nationalization of the Panama Canal Zone.

The Canal Zone will be completely turned over to the Panamanian government after Dec. 31, 1999.

Pressure hurts image

Professor L. Howard Quackenbush of the Spanish/Portuguese Department said the additional economic pressure on Panama is hurting the people and the reputation of the United States much more than it will ever hurt Noriega.

"This isn't hurting Noriega. He'll just take his millions and go to France," said Quackenbush. Once the people have ousted Noriega, they will forget about all of the drug trafficking and political corruption he has been accused of, he said.

"All the people will remember was how the U.S. manipulated their economy and made them suffer," said Quackenbush.

"Things aren't so rosy when you look at it from their perspective. Nobody likes to have 'big brother' looking over their shoulder and punching them in the ribs every time they get out of line," he said.

"If the tables were turned, how would we react?" said Quackenbush. "Who are we that we can oust their leader and decide who their president will be?" With a great deal of anti-American sentiment in Panama already, Quackenbush warned that the United States will have to live with the political residue caused by the economic pressure.

System needs change

According to the Associated Press, many Panamanians say that the nation's entire system needs changing, not just the leader. The Reagan administration continues to recognize Pres. Eric Arturo Delvalle, now in hiding in Panama, as the legitimate political leader of Panama.

The real political power in Panama rests on the head of the military, however, not on the president, said Valerie Hudson, of the Political ScienceDepartment. The defense forces control the executive and legislative branches of government through the two political parties linked to them and all judges and Supreme Court justices in Panama are political appointees, according to AP.

YU students leave for nuclear protest group of BYU students is leaving today to icipate in a national demonstration against nu- r weapons testing at the Nevada Test Site.

eric Smith, a senior from Rochester, N.Y., ma- ng in political science and a participant in the , said two groups of BYU students will demon- te at the Nevada site. One group will demon- te each weekend of the nationally organized est. The protest will continue through March merican Peace Test, the sponsor of the protest, mated that more than 3,000 protestors will onstrate at the Nevada Test Site, currently the U.S. location for nuclear weapons testing.

he (BYU students) going down are very, very trated with American reliance on nuclear pons for security," Smith said. The group, nized as a result of common concerns, believes United States should rely on diplomacy and ties for national security, rather than on pons and threats of violence, he said.

Demonstrations are not a substitute for legal protest, but are intended to focus attention on a problem, said sophomore Gena Edvalson, an English major from Citrus Heights, Calif., and a participant in the demonstration.

"We hope to educate people ... but more it's just to have a loud enough voice (to encourage change)," she said.

Edvalson, who participated in a similar demonstration at the site last May, said participants do not expect instant change, but do want a chance to "go and say 'I, for one, am not for this.'"

According to an APT handbook, it sanctions protests and acts of civil disobedience — opposing government actions by refusing to comply with the law — only if they are peaceful.

In order to keep demonstrations as peaceful as possible, APT informs local law officials before staging any protest.

Micheal Saperstein of the Utah Peace Test, an APT affiliate, said the protest will involve some civil disobedience but it will be a minor component of the larger demonstration.

Smith said one or two BYU students intend to engage in civil disobedience, but most are going down only to lend support to the protest.

Edvalson said civil disobedience at the test site usually means trespassing onto government property in front of the guards. "You would have to go over consciously and put your hands out for the handcuffs," she said.

APT said such protestors are usually escorted away from the test site and given a citation.

In case guards respond violently against protestors, APT requires demonstrators to train in nonviolent protest before attending the rally. The BYU group attended a UPT training session Monday. They learned techniques for group communication and participated in role plays, Edvalson said.

Saperstein said the training is mostly for those who may engage in civil disobedience but is encouraged for all protestors so violence can be avoided.

In addition to nonviolence training, APT requires participants to not bring drugs or alcohol to the protest, avoid destroying property, take responsibility for their own actions and abide by decisions made by the majority of the protestors.

onfection consumption continues

America's sweet tooth boosts candy sales

LISA A. SOWARDS
verse Staff Writer

espite recent health trends, ericans appear to be eating more ly this year than in the past, and J is no exception.

here appears to be a steady in- se of 3 percent to 4 percent annu- in the amount of candy I have to er for the BYU Bookstore," said Laurel Graf, a buyer for the BYU Sweet Stop. According to the 1988 U.S. Industrial Outlook written by the U.S. Department of Commerce, the per capita candy consumption is forecast to reach 19.3 pounds in 1987, up from 18.8 pounds in 1986.

A per capita candy consumption of 19.3 pounds is equivalent to each person in the United States eating 343 Reese's Peanut Butter Cups (.9 oz. each) or 143 Snickers bars (2.16 oz. each).

This can be compared to each person eating 334 Reese's Peanut Butter Cups or 139 Snickers bars in 1986.

Over the last five years, confectionery sales have increased 43 percent, said Richard T. O'Connell, president of the National Confectioners Association in his November 1987 talk on the state of the U.S. confectionery industry.

In a survey conducted in 1986 by the Opinion Research Corporation, it was found that nine out of every 10 U.S. households buy candy.

"The No. 1 candy bar on the BYU campus is Snickers. We sell more Snickers here than anything else," said Jim Tilson, assistant manager of BYU Vending Services.

He said the No. 2 candy was Peanut M&M's, with Reese's Peanut Butter Cups following close behind.

"We probably sell more candy and ice cream novelties at BYU than at most other universities because we don't have coffee or cigarettes in our vending machines," Tilson said.

BYU's vending services typically orders approximately 32,000 products from Hershey and approximately 97,500 products from M&M/Mars during a two to three month period, Tilson said.

The BYU Bookstore has to order approximately 11,500 Hershey products and close to 17,300 M&M/Mars products during a three month time period, said Graf.

This means that each student is purchasing approximately six candy bars every two to three months on campus.

Tilson said he sees a trend of people wanting more health-type foods, such as salads, sandwiches, apples and yogurt.

"We sell more junk food per unit than the health foods. However, the machines that hold the candy bars can hold more of these products than the machines that hold the health foods," said Tilson.

"When we run out of the health foods, we get complaints. I can't remember anyone calling up to complain that a vending machine was out of a particular candy bar," Tilson said.

Statistics from the NCA show that 56 percent of the people in the United States buy and eat candy at least once-a-week.

"Almost one out of every 10 people said they eat confectionery every day," according to the NCA report. Of this group of people, the report stated there are more men than women who eat candy every day.

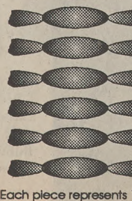
"Formal education makes no difference. In this group, an MBA eats candy as frequently as a high school drop-out," the report stated.

According to the NCA, confectionery and gum sales accounted for nearly 1.2 percent of the total grocery store sales in 1985.

Per capita candy consumption in America

The average american consumed 19.3 pounds of candy during 1987 and 18.8 pounds in 1986.

19.3 pounds of candy is equal to almost 618 pieces of candy weighing 1/2 ounce each.



Each piece represents 100 pieces of candy

Two local teen-agers charged with 'thrill kill'

By DOUG GIBSON
Universe Staff Writer

One of two teen-agers arrested in connection with the murder of a Las Vegas convenience store clerk, was out on bail for a narcotics charge in Lehi at the time he was allegedly involved in the murder, according to court records.

Lehi resident Edward Bennett, 18, and Joseph Beeson, 17, of Orem, were arrested and transported to Las Vegas to face charges in the shooting death of Michelle Moore, 21, a former Roosevelt, Utah, resident, and the wounding of a store customer.

Earlier this year, Bennett was arrested in Lehi and charged with possession of LSD with intent to distribute, said Lehi police officer Chad Smith.

In January, Bennett was charged in American Fork's 8th District Court with possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute — a second-degree felony.

District Court Judge John Backlund set bail at $500. Bennett posted bond and was released with an order to appear at a Feb. 11 preliminary hearing, according to court records.

Bennett failed to appear for sentencing and a $5,000 bench warrant was issued for his arrest, the records indicate. However, he returned voluntarily to the court on Feb. 25.

Provo attorney Claudia Laycock represented Bennett in the narcotics charge.

"My only contact with him was when he came back to the state," she said.

"On Feb. 25 the bench warrant was recalled."

Laycock said she believes the controlled substance charge will be dropped as a result of the homicide charge.

According to Las Vegas police detective David E. Hatch, Moore was working at a Las Vegas Stop-N-Go market when she was shot pointblank and killed by a .45-caliber bullet.

According to Hatch, two men entered the store and shot Moore without saying anything. They then tried to open the cash register, but set off an alarm.

Derrick Franklin, 16, was a customer in the store at the time. As he fled, he was hit by a bullet in the upper right leg.

Hatch described the crime as a "thrill kill" and said the suspects obviously intended to kill someone.

Hatch said an automatic 45-caliber pistol identified as the murder weapon was retrieved from a Provo pawnshop.

Red cross program on AIDS rejected by Utah students

By LINDA S. MATHESON
Universe Staff Writer

One of the first school districts in Utah to consider the implementation of an American Red Cross AIDS education program for junior and senior high school students is now considering an alternative program, a state Office of Education official said.

Bonnie Morgan, coordinator of curriculum at the education office said Murray School District will be looking at other ways to educate their high school students about AIDS.

The Red Cross program was tabled when a survey taken at a parent-student meeting indicated two videos used in the program were considered boring by some students, said Kathy Faerber, president-elect of the Murray PTA council.

However, the same survey indicated that parents were in favor of AIDS education, said superintendent Ron Stephens. "Seventy-seven surveys were filled out and 73 indicated a positive response."

"I think parents want to be educated and they want their children educated also," said Judy Dansie, president of the Murray PTA council.

The district decided to review an alternate AIDS education program before implementing one this year, said Faerber.

The district is searching for a program emphasizing abstinence from premarital sex, a monogamous relationship in marriage and saying no to illegal intravenous drugs, said Dansie.

"They reviewed the whole Red Cross video and a couple of board members were hesitant on the mentioning of contraceptives," said Faerber.

The board decided to preview a video done by the Salt Lake County Health Department. The Salt Lake County video does mention contraceptives in one sentence but,"the board is anxious to show something and this might be a better way to present (AIDS education)," Faerber said.

"We are looking at a program to be approved this year and then make it permanent and ongoing in the core curriculum," said Stephens. The program will probably be taught in the health education classes.

"There will be alternative education available for students whose parents do not approve of the program," said Stephens.

However, the board has not yet decided if parental permission slips will be required before students attend the class because new legislation has made the issue unclear, according to Stephens.

"We (the PTA) don't know about the issue of parental slips. We are leaving that up to the district and legal counselors to decide on," said Dansie. The PTA is stressing parents see the videos in advance and then discuss the content with their children, said Dansie.

The board felt the students needed AIDS education, said Dansie. "They felt the need to educate kids in someway about AIDS. It is a serious thing and we need to have the students informed," she said.

According to Richard Tranter, vice principal at Murray High, students have been asking about AIDS.

Dole will keep campaigning in Illinois

Associated Press

Republican Bob Dole, clobbered by Vice President George Bush in the Super Tuesday contests, talked with aides Thursday about dropping out of the race but decided to keep campaigning through the Illinois primary, campaign sources said.

Vice President George Bush said whatever happened, his campaign would "go about our business, do our job."

Bush, meanwhile, declared himself "personally disturbed at the breaches of ethics" he'd seen in government, and said Thursday he would set up a White House ethics panel if elected president.

Dole pulled television commercials off the air in Illinois and laid off more than half his staff Thursday. And a source said his campaign advisers were discussing whether he should suspend campaigning before the Illinois primary on Tuesday.

However, national campaign spokeswoman Dale Tate said Dole intended to remain a candidate. "We're not pulling the plug on the campaign," she said.

Later, Dole aides, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the possibility of dropping out was discussed, but the Kansas senator would keep campaigning at least through Tuesday's Illinois contest.

Dole himself told an audience in Berwyn, Illinois: "I'm not a dropout. I'm a candidate...We're going to be in this race all the way to New Orleans."

Musical family hijacks Soviet airplane

MOSCOW (AP) — A family of musicians from Siberia who hijacked an Aeroflot jet hid their weapons inside their instruments, then opened fire and set off a bomb when an army assault team stormed the grounded plane, Soviet media said Thursday.

Five of the hijackers, who were led by two brothers and their mother, died in the assault and subsequent fire aboard the jetliner on Tuesday, as did three passengers and a stewardess, Tass said. Two of the sky pirates committed suicide and the matriarch, once honored as a Hero Mother of the Soviet Union for having many children, was shot dead by family members, the official news agency said.

Deputy Civil Aviation Minister Ivan Vasin told the government newspaper Izvestia that the hijacking was the most dramatic he could recall in his long career. Reports said the hijackers were armed members of the internal security forces. Hijacking in the Soviet Union can be punished by death. The surviving passengers were evacuated, Tass said, and 20 remain hospitalized.

Mecham's chief of staff testifies at trial

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Gov. Evan Mecham's last chief of staff testified Thursday that he would not have responded as the governor did to reports that another official threatened a former Mecham aide who was a grand jury witness.

But Richard Burke, a former U.S. Attorney and Justice Department official who was the first defense witness in Mecham's impeachment trial, refused to say whether he thought the governor obstructed the investigation of the alleged threat.

"I don't think I should comment on that," Burke said, as members of the Arizona Senate pressed him for a legal opinion. "I think the governor would have a very different view of that than I would."

Mecham, 63, is accused of obstructing justice by telling the state's top police official not to give the attorney general information about the alleged threat.

He also is accused of concealing a $350,000 campaign loan and misusing $80,000 from a state fund, but the Senate is hearing testimony on the obstruction charge first.

Mecham is the first U.S. governor to be impeached in six decades.

Phone messages from minister released

DALLAS (AP) — A former minister left two telephone messages for his wife the night she was choked nearly to death, describing his whereabouts in keen detail and giving times, and warning her to lock the garage door, according to tapes released Thursday.

Walker Railey told police he found Margaret "Peggy" Railey unconscious on the floor of the garage at their Lake Highlands home shortly after midnight last April 22, choked with a cord. She remains in a coma.

Railey, 40, senior pastor of the prominent United Methodist Church of Dallas at the time of the attack, claimed his family was the victim of a racially motivated attack. After a suicide attempt and reported refusal to testify before a grand jury, he resigned and moved to San Francisco, leaving his two children and wife in Texas.

Railey has denied attacking his wife and vows he is innocent. He has not been charged but his lawyer said he was a prime suspect, and police hope to have Railey answer more questions.

Hearing university president resigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elisabeth Ann Zinser has resigned her position as president of Gallaudet University, only days after her selection to lead the school for the deaf touched off a storm of protest from students who demanded a hearing-impaired president, it was announced early Friday.

The university's board of trustees said it had regretfully accepted Zinser's resignation and would resume its search for a new president.

Gallaudet Board Chairman Jane Bassett Spilman called the resignation a tragic loss to the university.

"We selected Dr. Zinser as president in recognition of her superior academic, administrative and research skills. Her strengths and accomplishments were precisely in those areas most critical for the growth of the university," Spilman said.On Thursday, students had declared Zinser unwelcome on campus and vowed to keep her out. Students have been protesting the selection of Zinser, who is not deaf and does not know sign language, and their demonstrations have halted virtually all instruction for four days.

Underground Palestinian strike leaders encourage retaliation on Jewish settlers

HEBRON, Occupied West Bank (AP) — Palestinians rioted near Jewish enclaves and Jews drove down Arab streets firing at houses and savaging cars early Tuesday, the army and witnesses said. Soldiers wounded three Arabs.

Troops shot and critically wounded two other Arabs in the occupied Gaza Strip, hospital officials said.

Leaflet issued

In a new leaflet issued Thursday, underground Palestinian strike leaders told residents of the occupied territories to take revenge on Jewish settlers, Palestinians who aid Israel and those who sympathize with Jordan.

Leaflet No. 10, signed by the PLO's United Leadership of the Uprising, also ordered all Arab policemen to resign and told Palestinian merchants to boycott Israeli products and reduce prices charged to Arabs.

Two alleged collaborators have been reported killed since Arab riots began Dec. 8 in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, which Israel captured from Jordan and Egypt in the 1967 Middle East war. At least 87 Palestinians have been killed by Israeli gunfire or beatings, and hundreds have been wounded.

Police detained Moussa and Ali Darwish, who were free pending trial on charges of printing thousands of PLO leaflets in east Jerusalem, Israel radio reported.

Arab demonstrations

Jews in Hebron, a city of 50,000 Arabs with two small Jewish enclaves, said they were awakened shortly before midnight by Arabs shouting "Slaughter the Jews!" and "God is Great!" Some settlers said they rushed into the street and fired warning shots because they feared attacks on their homes.

Rabbi Moshe Levinger told The Associated Press the Arabs "ran down near the synagogue. They wanted to enter Jewish homes. We responded by throwing stones and firing in the air. If we hadn't stopped them ... there would have been a slaughter of Jews, men, women and children."

Noam Arnon, another resident of the 40-family Beit Hadassah complex where Levinger lives, said Arabs did not attack Jewish homes.

"There was no damage to Jewish property," he said, adding that he believed militants from the Kiryat Arba settlement outside Hebron were responsible for damaging Arab property. The area military commander also disputed Levinger's claim.

No attempt on homes

"It's important to stress that the riots were directed at the army and at no stage was there an intention or attempt to attack Jewish homes," the commander, who did not give his name, said on Israel radio.

Arab residents of Hebron said they were awakened early Wednesday by carloads of settlers raiding their neighborhoods.

"All the city was sleeping. There was nobody in the streets," said Mustafa Natsche, the former mayor.

His cousin, Abdul-Rahman Natsche, said: "Suddenly there was a sort of battle under the windows of my house — shooting, crying, moaning. The settlers demolished the cars of Arabs and shot at the windows of homes."

An AP reporter saw seven vandalized cars, including a station wagon with all its windows smashed and another gutted by fire. The cars were in four divergent locations, some more than a mile from any Jewish settlement.

The owner of the burned-out car, Khader Kafishei, reported seeing a Jew set it ablaze and pointed to bullet holes in the windows of his home.

Arab residents showed several revolver cartridges they said were collected after the raids and said they turned over hundreds of casings to Israeli authorities as evidence.

Levinger claimed 500 Arabs were rioting and came to within 100 yards of Jewish homes. He said about 50 settlers defended the homes. An AP reporter saw no apparent damage either to the stone facing of Beit Hadassah, a former hospital, or the other Jewish enclave, Tel Rumayda. Only a few hundred Jews live in Beit Hadassah and Tel Rumayda. Army spokesmen said 20 to 30 Arabs were involved in each of three disturbances in Hebron, and Jewish settlers set one Arab car ablaze. Soldiers wounded three Palestinians in the legs when rioters trapped their jeep, the army said.

Corrine Drewery, of Swing Out Sister, laughs and signs autographs in a special Provo appearance at The Palace. The band was nominated for two Grammies.

Americans have more than just heard of Swing Out Sister. The "group is on top of the charts right now," said Dennis McCormack, general manager of KFMY.

The band received the two Grammy nominations for best new group and best vocal performance by a duo or group.

Despite their appraised talent and growing fame, members of the group seem almost awed at the attention and recognition they have received in the United States.

When the group was nominated for a Grammy, "I didn't believe it at first," said Martin Jackson, percussionist. "They called to tell us by telephone, and I didn't think it was true ... it was blazing."

The three musicians said they were not disappointed when they did not actually receive the Grammies for which they were nominated. "It was a neat experience just to be included," said Drewery.

What's next for the group after their publicity tour? "We're going to go home and start our next album," they said.

Ricks College choir performs with two BYU choirs tonight

By STEVE VISTAUNET
Universe Staff Writer

The Ricks College A Capella Choir, from Rexburg, Idaho, will perform tonight along with performances by the BYU Singers and Concert Choir at 7:30 in the de Jong Concert Hall.

The 1½ hour long program will commence with the BYU Singers, followed by the Ricks College A Cappella Choir and will conclude with the BYU Concert Choir.

Ronald Staheli, director of the BYU Singers said that he and other faculty members have been talking about bringing the Ricks choir to campus for years. "We performed at Ricks last year as part of an exchange we hope will occur annually," said Staheli.

"Tonight's performance will be exciting and interesting because we will have three different choirs that will represent three different styles of performances," said Staheli.

Mack Wilberg, director of BYU's Concert Choir, said that some of BYU's finest talent has come from the Idaho college. "We look at the performance as an opportunity for the members of the Ricks choir to get to know us better," said Wilberg.

"We hope that the faculty and students will come to tonight's performance because there will be a wonderfully wide variety of styles that will be sung by the three choirs and it will be a great event that shouldn't be missed," said Staheli.

The event is a part of the University Ensemble Series and is being sponsored by the Department of Music.

There is no charge for admission to this performance.

Phone company says, 'Hold the lion'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A telephone repair crew balked at fixing a downed wire until their customer agreed to hold the lion.

"They wrote on their work report, 'Lion in yard. No way,' " said Dannie Carper, 51, an Indiana Bell supervisor from South Bend who helped Indianapolis clean up from an early March ice storm.

Carper verified on Monday that the householder owned a year-old lioness named Chasta. The owner agreed to leash her so that Carper could reattach the wire.

Carper had his picture taken with Chasta. "I have one where I've got my arms around her and she's chewing on my shoe," he said. "When she was chewing on my shoes I was afraid maybe she thought they were pigskin."

Modern West Coast dance company debuts in Utah at the Capitol Theatre

By NANCY LILYA
Universe Staff Writer

The Margaret Jenkins Dance Company, one of the leading modern dance companies on the West Coast, makes its Utah debut on the stage of the Capitol Theatre at 8 tonight.

The Margaret Jenkins Dance Company season features two collaborative works entitled "Pedal Steal" and "First Figure." The production is hosted by Repertory Dance Theatre.

Jenkins, a fifth generation San Franciscan, is known as the city's most esteemed and influential modern dance choreographer. In 1973, she formed her own company and opened one of the area's first studio performance spaces.

In New York, she was trained by José Limon, Martha Graham and Merce Cunningham. Early in her career, she danced as a charter member of Twyla Tharp Dance.

"Pedal Steal," the centerpiece of the Salt Lake City performance and the recepient of a 1986 New York Bessie Award, is a rambunctious collage of the American West, according to Laird Rodet, company manager. It premiered at the 1985 Next Wave Festival.

Rodet said wild and expansive visual effects and country-rock scores by multi-media artist Terry Allen evoke everything from sleazy hotel rooms to gaping canyons.

"This is not the idealized West of John Ford, but the grungy, profane, hard-shelled West of Robert Altman and Sam Shepard," said Rodet.

Critical response from both sides of the country relating to the production has been positive.

Of "Pedal Steal," Joan Ross Acocella, a dance critic for the eastern publication Village Voice, said, "Allen conjurs up a whole glorious symphony of southwest dirttown life; the raunchiness, loneliness, the violence and religiousity."

Of "First Figure," Anne Marie Welsh, of San Diego Union, said, "At once powerful, profound, and enigmatic, this is a post-modern dance work by a choreographer of steady intelligence."

"First Figure," the second number, is a 1984 collaboration merging imagistic text by Michael Palmer, music by J. A. Deane, and sets by Barbara S. Solomon.

A world premiere duet to complete the evening's program will be presented by Margaret Jenkins and Linda C. Smith, artistic directors of the Repertory Dance Theatre.

Cougars edge Hawaii, 76-74

BYU battles UTEP Miners in tonight's WAC semi-finals

By SHELLEY L. McMURDIE
Sports Editor

Who would have thought?

Most people were anticipating a blow out, but BYU's Cougars narrowly squeaked past the Rainbows of Hawaii, 76-74, in game No. 5 of the WAC Tournament.

And in tonight's game, the Cougars will battle the UTEP Miners in the semi-finals.

"Double overtime last Saturday afternoon — we haven't forgotten that," said BYU Head Coach Ladell Andersen, concerning the Cougars' loss to UTEP last week.

Even though the Rainbows' record isn't anything to brag about at 4-25, records can be deceiving, according to Andersen.

"They're the hardest scrapping ball club we've played. What happens to a team that can nearly win now, my hat's off to them," he said. "It seems like the teams are saving a lot for us."

Senior Cougar Jeff Chatman agreed. "I don't think our team is struggling, but every team is playing us better," he said. "We're 25-4. We feel good and we'll use this win and go from there."

In the contest that remained close from start to finish, Rainbow Reggie Cross opened up the scoring for Hawaii with two quick buckets. But the Cougars answered back with senior Jim Usevitch dumping two points on an offensive rebound and Mike Smith tossing in two free throws.

BYU took the lead, 10-8, on a bucket by Smith. But the Rainbows put on the heat and outscored the Cougars, 10-5, to gain the lead at 18-15.

A three-point shot by sophomore Andy Toolson, his second of the night, put BYU back in the running, 22-20.

No matter how hard they seemed to try, though, the Cougars just couldn't seem to pull away from Hawaii. A rash of fouls called on BYU late in the second half kept the ball in the hands of the Rainbows. Sophomore Nathan Call picked up three fouls in less than four minutes.

But the fighting wasn't over. The Cougars pulled ahead to a five-point lead with just more than a minute remaining in the half. But again Hawaii dumped in the points when they counted. By the midway point, the Cougars were only one point on top, 39-38.

Believe it or not, the second half was reminiscent of the first. Everytime the Cougars looked like they were going to pull away from the Rainbows, their luck turned around and Hawaii stayed in the game.

With 16 minutes on the clock, a bucket by Chatman put BYU ahead, 51-45. Maybe their luck was changing. But the Rainbows dumped three buckets in a row to tie the score for the 11th time, 51-51.

The Cougars had a seven-point advantage with 10 minutes remaining, but Hawaii outscored them again. A three-point shot by Chris Gaines put Hawaii within one point, 67-66. Gaines led the Rainbows with 27 points.

With three and a half minutes remaining, the Cougars were ahead by five, 74-69. But like the same old story, Hawaii fought back.

With 18 seconds on the clock and the Rainbows in possession, the most unexpected upset was looking closer and closer. But the Cougars held Hawaii scoreless and captured their 25th win of the season, 76-74.

Why couldn't the Cougars pull away from a team that many people dubbed the worst in the nation? "I'm not supposed to talk about the officials," said Andersen.

Even if Andersen wasn't supposed to talk 'about' the officials, talking 'to' them cost the coach a technical early in the second half.

"I got one whether I earned it or not," he said. "I thought we got fouled on the drive and I can prove it on tape."

Chatman led BYU with 21 points and 12 rebounds. Usevitch stacked up 18 points and ripped down a game-high 13 rebounds for the Cougars while Toolson chipped in 13 points and Smith 12.

Despite heavy defense by the University of Hawaii Rainbows, senior Jeff Chatman keeps control of the ball. The Cougars edged Hawaii, 76-74 , in game No. 5 of the WAC tournament. With the win under their belts, the Cougars will face the UTEP Miners in tonight's semi-finals.

Miners hammer Lobos, 74-61; meet Cougars in semi-finals

By KEVIN J. NIENDORF
Asst. Sports Editor

The University of Texas El Paso Men's Basketball Team had a 16-1 point run in the final 10 minutes of the game to beat the University of New Mexico 74-61 Thursday night in the first round of the WAC tournament.

UTEP earned the right to advance to the semi-final round against BYU tonight in the Marriott Center. Game time is set for 9 p.m.

Senior Chris Sandle had 22 points for UTEP and teammate Tim Hardaway added 20 in a game that had 15 lead changes and eight ties.

"As a team we didn't want to let them beat us three times," said Hardaway of two previous defeats to UNM this season. "We just wanted to pull ourselves together and win it for Antonio (Davis)."

Davis, starting center for UTEP, went down with a possible broken ankle with three minutes remaining in the first half with the score tied at 29 a piece. "Davis is listed as doubtful for playing in the remainder of the tournament," said UTEP Head Coach Don Haskins.

"I thought we had some good shots that just didn't fall," said UNM Head Coach Gary Colson. "We just got into foul trouble but our problem was on offense."

The Lobos shot a mere 40 percent for both halves while UTEP shot 44 and 55 percent respectively. UTEP also shot almost twice as many free-throws (37) as UNM (20) and hit 67 percent (25) of them.

"I thought we played very good defense in the first half," said Haskins. "But it was just the opposite for the first 10 minutes of the second half.

"I'll tell you what, there isn't a team in this league that can't beat you on any given night," he said.

BYU found that out in the game following the UTEP and UNM by beating the University of Hawaii by just two points, 76-74.

Tonight's game will be the second time UTEP has faced BYU in less than a week.

Last Saturday the Miners beat BYU in double overtime which gave the Cougars its first home loss of the season.

"They (BYU) are a very, very good team," said Haskins. "I imagine we'll have their attention."

Said Hardaway, "We're just gonna run our offense and move men around. Our strong point is getting the ball low and penetrating, we've been posting low for the last half of the season."

"The key to beating BYU is our defense," said Campbell. "If we play it (defense) hard it will control the game and our offense will take care of itself. We realize we can beat BYU, we just gotta play hard."

BYU forward Jeff Chatman is looking for a tough game but is confident going into tonight's game. "We have something to prove against UTEP and we're looking forward to playing them."

For the Lobos, their chance for an NCAA bid was hurt with the loss but they could do well in the NIT if an NCAA bid isn't given to them. UNM forward Charlie Thomas, who led his team with 17 points, said the team would have to talk first about the NIT possibility.

"I don't know if everyone's heart will be in it," said Thomas.

Cowboys beat Aztecs n tournament action

y BRADY BINGHAM
niverse Sports Writer

If statistics decided the outcome, en San Diego State would have en the victor in their WAC Tourna- ent opening round meeting with th ranked Wyoming. However, it is e Cowboys who will move on to the cond round to face Colorado State virtue of a 83-76 win over the tecs.

The Aztecs out-shot the Cowboys m the field (54.2 percent to 49.1) d from the free-throw line (72 per- nt to 70.4).

The Aztecs also muscled the Cow- ys on the glass, out rebounding em both on the offensive and defen- e boards. SDSU ended the game th 34 rebounds to Wyoming's 27.

SDSU even got the help of six ree-point field goals from the star ard, Tony Ross and 24 points from eir inside man, Mark McMullen.

But it just wasn't enough to hold off e high flying Cowboys who have w won 11 of their last 12 games and ve moved past the WAC top seed U in the AP polls.

"They played an aggressive de- nse against us," said San Diego ach Jim Brandenburg.

"We made several turnovers and ve them cheap buckets at the other d. That cost us the game."

The Cowboys jumped out to a 10-4 lead after the first two minutes of the game and never relinquished their lead. However, they never had a comfortable lead either (their largest lead was 12 points).

"We intended to come out with a great effort," said Wyoming Coach Benny Dees.

"I'm not quite sure of our intensity the last few games. We seem to be playing not to lose, rather than to win."

Four of the five Cowboy starters ended in double figures. Leading the way for Wyoming was sophomore gaurd, Reggie Fox, who poured in 19 points, including five three-pointers.

"I felt comfortable on the perimeter tonight," said Fox, "so I took what they gave me."

Other top scorers for the Cowboys were Fennis Dembo with 18 points, Eric Leckner with 16, and Robyn Davis with 12.

Top scorers for the Aztecs were McMullen with 24, Ross with 18, and Rodney Hawkins with 16.

The Cowboys will next face the Rams of Colorado State, who are known as a slow down, pace-controlling team.

"If we play with a lack of Defensive patience, they could chop us up," said Dees.

The Wyoming/Colorado State matchup will begin at 7 p.m. tonight in the Marriott Center.

Rams dash Utes' hopes, 78-68

Colorado State advances to WAC semi-finals, Utah goes home

By SHELLEY L. McMURDIE
Sports Editor

If standings coming into the WAC Tournament mean anything, the Rams of Colorado State chalked up another upset, as they defeated Utah's Utes, 78-68, in game No. 2 of this year's tournament.

The Rams, ranked No. 6 in the conference coming into the game, outshot the Utes, 60 percent to 48 percent. Utah was ranked at the third position in the conference.

"We're jelling right now," said Pat Durham, of Colorado State. "It's a little late in the season, but it's working." Durham downed 27 points in the contest to lead all scorers.

"We've got a long ways to go, but we're making improvements and gaining confidence," said David Turcotte, who chipped in 14 points for the Rams.

The key to the game was that the Rams played smart, according to Boyd Grant, CSU's head coach. "When we play smart and with that level of intensity, we've got to go somewhere," he said.

The Rams pulled ahead of the Utes early in the contest, leading by as much as five points. But with just more than 11 minutes on the clock in the first half, Utah's Tom Connor landed a three-pointer to tie the score at 11.

But the Rams answered back and outscored the Utes. By the midway point, Colorado State had pulled ahead to an 11-point lead, 34-23. With just a few minutes left in the first half, Grant was charged with a technical foul after he questioned a call that landed Trent Shippen on the floor several times.

"I lost that one (discussion with the referee), but I'm just glad I didn't lose the game," said Grant. "I did deserve it, I guess, but in my opinion the ref was totally wrong."

Shippen dumped 18 points for Colorado State. In the second half, the Utes tried to come from behind several times but they couldn't quite drop the buckets. They came to within six points when the Rams failed to score early. But Colorado came on with the steam and continued to dominate the contest.

"They had great composure. I don't think anyone in the conference could have beaten them today," said Lynn Archibald, Utah's head coach. Free throws by the Rams in the last few minutes clinched the win, 78-68.

Colorado will take on Wyoming today at 7 p.m. in game No. 6.

Temple expects top seed with win

ssociated Press

Top-ranked Temple and No. 2 Pur- e are headed for the same place, the CAA Tournament, on different ths.

The Owls won their 15th consecu- e game, beating Rhode Island 68- Wednesday night for the Atlantic Conference tournament championship. The victory assured Temple, 29-1, a top seeding in one of the four NCAA regionals. Purdue, which also seemed headed for a top seeding, stumbled at Ohio State, falling 71-60. The defeat won't cost the Boilermakers an NCAA bid, which was secured earlier by clinching the Big Ten title, but could affect where Purdue is placed in the NCAA field.

In the only other game involving ranked teams, No. 19 Illinois beat 10th-ranked Michigan 85-74 in the Big Ten. Temple won its third Atlantic 10 tournament in four years as Mark Macon scored 25 points and Howie Evans restarted the offense after Rhode Island rallied for a 51-50 lead.

"The key to this team is that they know how to win," Coach Don Chaney said. "We are a good team, but I think we can be better if our team stays in its element."

That element is based on Evans dishing the ball to Macon, the freshman star, and sharpshooter Mike Vreeswyk, who scored 17 points against the Rams, 26-6.

"A good cake has all the elements in it," Chaney said. "Momma don't have the shortening, the cake falls. What is our necessary element? Howard Evans. Howie sets the table and the rest of the players just come and eat."

Rhode Island also hopes to feast at the NCAA banquet.

"We outrebounded Temple 39-30 and that's an unbelievable stat," Rams Coach Tom Penders said. "That helped keep us in the game. We played the No. 1 team in the country with an awful lot of heart and scratched back into it."

Ohio State scratched past Purdue behind hot free-throw shooting late in the game and a 12-point second half by Jerry Francis. Buckeyes Coach Gary Williams said Purdue might have had a letdown after locking up the league title against Michigan last weekend.

The Sky's The Limit As A Nanny

You can become a nanny with the oldest, most reliable placement service in the United States.

We at Nannies Placement Service have in excess of 100 carefully screened families on field at any given time just waiting for the right nanny. We have negotiated with these families for you to get a weekly salary of $145 and up, room and board, paid vacations, two days off each week, insurance benefits, and round trip airfare.

"Thank you for providing me with this job. I love it already...I will grow greatly from this experience and I am glad there is a way for girls to go and be on their own."
Wendy McKesell

"The other girl you placed in Princeton, Janet, was a very good friend of mine in Utah - we've known each other since childhood. We ran into one another at church today. I love it here! The job is wonderful. The family is super. — nice beyond expression. Thanks so much."

Advertiser advises students, 'don't take no for an answer'

By CHRISTY WARD
Universe Staff Writer

Because the professional world is so overcrowded and competitive, an advertising creative consultant and columnist said students entering the work force must be street-smart rather than book-smart.

"Who will get hired? Well, the more eager you are the better your chances," Whit Hobbs, creative consultant to "The New Yorker," told communications students at a departmental symposium Thursday.

"Enthusiasm is infectious. Other things being equal, the people who will not give up and will not take 'no' for an answer are the ones who are most likely to succeed," Hobbs said.

A quick mind, good personality, great sense of humor, tons of common sense, and a genuine interest in people attract advertising employers, said Hobbs.

"Yet, if you think it is easy, if you think it's a get-rich-quick business, then the business is wrong for you and you are wrong for the business."

Hobbs said approach is an important aspect of interviewing, and a job hunter should not concentrate on what the company can offer him.

"If I'm the person you are coming to, try approaching me in terms of my needs rather than your needs," he said.

Connections are also helpful in securing job opportunities, said Hobbs.

"Pull every string — don't be bashful. First find the person and then find the job," he said.

Hobbs also advises that an interviewee be well-dressed and send a thank you letter within 24 hours of the interview.

Hobbs, who began his first job in New York as a "glorified gopher" and has worked for 22 magazines and newspapers, said he is exactly where he wants to be and exactly who he wants to be.

Hobbs said prospective employees should not just look for the best paying job, but should look for a position with advancement possibilities.

"Realize that the dollar sign is not the real sign of success," he said.

Army sets one more hearing for biolab

Public concern over Dugway Proving ground's biolab generates a new hearing

By DOUG GIBSON
Universe Staff Writer

Reaction to an additional public hearing in Salt Lake City regarding the Army's proposed germ-warfare lab at Dugway Proving Grounds is mostly positive although one congressman would prefer more hearings.

The Army originally planned only one hearing on March 14 in Tooele, but scheduled a March 22 hearing in Salt Lake City after receiving several calls from Utah political officials, scientists and environmental groups requesting more hearings.

"The hearing will be conducted in room 303 of the state capitol," said Kathy Whitaker, public information officer at Dugway. "Testifying at the hearing for the Army will be Col. Wyatt Colclasure."

The topic of the hearings is the Draft Environmental Impact statement released last month that said the lab posed no threat to the community.

The Army contends the lab will be used only to test Biosafety Level 3 agents, which are germs that have known vaccines.

Gov. Norm Bangerter and others questioned the Army's intentions because the proposed lab would have safety standards for the highest level of testing. That testing includes BL-4 agents for which there is no known vaccine.

Whitaker said the high safety level is for the safety of Dugway employees but did not rule out the possibility of future BL-4 testing.

"If the Army eventually planned BL-4 testing, before doing so an environmental assessment report would be done, said Whitaker.

Previously, a coalition of 33 state legislators had requested Dugway hold additional hearings in Salt Lake City, Ogden, Provo, Logan and Juab County.

However, Whitaker said Thursday there will be no additional hearings beside the Tooele and Salt Lake City hearings.

Gov. Bangerter's spokeswoman, Francine Giani, said the governor is satisfied with the additional hearing. "Earlier this week the governor sent a letter to Secretary of the Army John Marsh requesting one additional hearing be held in Salt Lake City at the capitol. He's happy about the Army's response."

"The governor feels that broad public input about such an important issue should concern as many people as possible. He wants the public to be aware of what is happening at Dugway," she said.

Lynn Zimmerman, a spokeswoman for Salt Lake City Mayor Palmer DePaulis, said the mayor is pleased with the new hearing. "Basically the mayor has written a letter in regard to more hearings being held and he wanted one in Salt Lake City."

"Mayor DePaulis wants to see a thorough and open process take place to assure all concerns are addressed," said Zimmerman.

Guy Williams, staff assistant for Utah Congressman Wayne Owens' Salt Lake City office, said Owens is partially pleased with the new hearing.

"We'd like to see more hearings in different areas, but we're thankful we were able to get this one," he said.

When asked if Owen's will pursue additional hearings, Williams replied "We're fairly confident the Army will solicit additional information. Beyond that ... if after the hearings it's evident more are needed, we'll see how things go from there."

Owens previously planned to testify at the hearings. However, Williams said Congress scheduled a March 22 vote and Owens may not be able to attend the hearing, but he will release a statement regarding the issue.

Bureau checks advertisement claims

By DOUG GIBSON
Universe Staff Writer

In 1987, the Utah Better Business Bureau reviewed more than 400 advertisement claims of businesses and handled more than 50,000 consumer inquiries, according to a BBB spokesman.

"Our area is the entire state, from St. George to Logan," said Bill Beadle. In an interview with the Daily Universe, he explained how the BBB acts as a watchdog for consumers.

Beadle said verifying a company's advertising claim is a main function of the BBB. "We're the nagging conscience of the marketplace. If something sounds too good to be true we check it out."

According to Beadle, 160 of the ads reviewed in 1987 involved comparative price/savings claims.

"If the original price is the manufacture's suggested retail, that doesn't guarantee the product ever sold for the higher price. We require the merchant to inform us where the product was sold within the last 90 days for the higher price."

Beadle stressed the previously higher price must have been offered in a potential customer's shopping area and the advertisers should be able to substantiate a claim prior to printing the ads.

Beadle said that of the more than 50,000 consumer inquiries received annually at the BBB, most involve a consumer entering the office and requesting information about a company. "Before they do business, we can get them a liability report for the past three years that lists any prior problems the company has had."

According to Beadle, other affairs handled by the BBB include an investigation of consumer complaints. Recently, the bureau has investigated companies who advertise by telephone. "They sell vitamins at very high prices, offer extravagant prizes to consumers and eventually give the customer a cheap gift."

Salt Lake City resident Pam Madsen received a phone call from a Las Vegas telemarketing company announcing she had won a new Yamaha music organ.

"He made it sound better than it was," said Madsen. The company told Madsen she had to buy vitamins in order to escape shipping and handling costs and taxes.

Madsen said she paid $1,000 for vitamins that would normally retail for $100. "The Yamaha organ turned out to be worth about $20," she said.

Beadle said the BBB occasionally hires an arbitrator who hears a consumer complaint against a company. "If both parties agree, we engage a volunteer from the community who will act as judge for a day and hear arguments. Then that person must render a decision within 10 working days."

Dorm scholars get dollars

By LESLEY C. BURDICK
Universe Staff Writer

BYU's Auxiliary Services awarded three $1,000 scholarships to second-year on-campus housing students Wednesday night.

The annual Academic Banquet honors single students living in on-campus housing who have achieved a 3.5 GPA or better, recognizing individual students for their academic achievements.

The On-Campus Living/Leadership Scholarship was a new tradition added to this year's Academic Banquet.

The scholarship recipients are from the three on-campus single student housing units.

Amy Nichols, a freshman from Redlands, Calif., majoring in travel and tourism, won from Deseret Towers. From Helaman Halls, the winner was Kristen Hayes, a senior from American Falls, Idaho, majoring in English teaching. Kimberly Wilson, a sophomore from Kaysville majoring in communications, was the winner from Heritage Halls.

The new Auxiliary Service Scholarship is offered to encourage students to live on campus a second year, said Kirk Ludlow, chairman of the scholarship selection committee.

"We want to say thank you to a few students for helping to provide jobs for the auxiliary workers," said Ludlow. "For without the students we would have no jobs," he added.

Auxiliary Services provides the rooms, meals, laundry and other services that make on-campus living possible.

During the banquet an award was given to the housing area with the highest overall GPA. Individual halls within each area also won recognition.

Scholarship applicants had to be full-time students, show financial need, not be on any other form of scholarship, have a GPA of 2.75 or better and be living in the on-campus housing next year to be qualified.

The applicants had to have three written endorsements and write a 300-word essay telling why they should receive the funds, said Ludlow.

The committee received about 75 applications, then narrowed down the list to 10 finalists.

The committee awarded the scholarships after interviewing the 10 finalists.
